MINOR MENTION.

N. Y. Plumbing Co.
Heavy suits cheap to order at Reiter's.
The mercury got down in the mouth again yesterday and hung about five degrees below.

Everybody is invited to attend the union meetings being held every evening this week in the congregational church.

No decision has been rendered by Judge Carson in the motion for a new trial in the case of Edwards, convicted of forgery.

It is reported that Ben Marks is to erect an elegant residence on his property which adjoins Lake Manawa this coming season.

The German Catholic ladies and the Catholic Knights are to give a party in the hall over Brown's drug store, on Main street, January 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Marks have decided to sell their handsome vine street property and remove to the farm, which adjoins Lake Manawa on the east.

The band concert at the rink last evening drew a goodly sized company to that popular pleasure resort. The ice was in excellent condition, the music good and all seemed to be merry.

In the district court, Judge Thornell presiding, the case of Hazard vs. the City is now on trial. This is a suit to recover damages to a valuable horse injured by reason of a hole in the street.

It is stated upon good authority that Mr. Stone, of the well known furniture house of Dewey & Stone, Omaha, is arranging to purchase the Marks property on Vine street for his own residence.

A convenient blackboard has been added to the appendages of the district court. On this board are bulletined the assignment of cases, the number of the case on trial and the number of the case to follow.

The Presbyterian church has passed very laudatory resolutions concerning Rev. Mr. Bates, who has tendered his resignation as pastor of the church. The sentiment of the resolutions will be endorsed by many outside the church as well as those of his own flock.

There will be a goodly number of Council Bluffs people leave here Friday night for the ice carnival at St. Paul.
The tickets are only $1.30 for the round trip and can be obtained of J. C. Mitchell, the well known agent. The party will have a jolly time without doubt.

It seems that the number of Council Bluffs people who are to start for St.
Paul next Friday evening to attend the ice carnival are increasing as the time draws nigh. A number of ladies are to be in the party. The tickets for the round trip are $1.30.

Several business men of Omaha have been quietly looking over the city with a view of purchasing residence property, and it is reported that one of the gentlemen at least has decided upon a location and will erect a costly home, provided the present owner, who resides in the east, will give satisfactory figures.

In the case of C. E. Beebe vs. the Equitable Insurance company, of Waterloo, Ia., the jury has returned a verdict in favor of Mr. Beebe for the amount claimed, $158.80. This claim was for furniture furnished the company's agent, Randall, who fitted up an office here, and then skipped, leaving the company and others in the hole. The company claimed Randall had no right to buy furniture on the company's credit, as he was simply working on commission.

Those who have been taking the direct road to Omaha across the river have been accommodated in the past by the presence of a little bridge across a ditch, just after reaching the other side. Lately this bridge has disappeared, having been taken away by somebody for some purpose, and its absence causes such inconvenience to those using this road between the two cities. It is all that an empty vehicle can do to get over this place empty, and loaded vehicles have to seek some other route.

Give it Up.
The following query is handed in as having been received by a Bee reader, who, in his perplexity, brings it to this office for an answer.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 14, 1887.—I notice that the price of gas in your city is $4.50 per 1,000 feet (with discount of 50 cents) and the price in Omaha is $2 per 1,000 feet (25 cents off).
Will you please let me know why this remarkable difference should exist in the price of gas at these two cities, where the cost of production must be about equal?

half their former rates. See them before only authorized city weighmaster, and A Costly Bit of Tongue.

Some time ago Mrs. Amy brought suit against Charles Baughan, an old resident also, claiming from him $10,000 damages for having called her a "hussy" and some other tantalizing names. The suit is set for a trial in the district court to-day, but it is reported that the matter has been settled by a compromise, by which Mr. Baughan pays her $75.

THE CROOK PLACED AT LAST

Being Arrested and Promised a Trip Back to Cheyenne.

THE ALDERMEN ACT STRANGELY Points From the Police Stars—A Big Drop in the Price of a Piece of Tongue—A Gas Query.

The Council Acts Queerly.
The city gets a per cent of all the money taken in on the city weighmas-ter's scales. Although the city allows private scales to have the use of its grounds and be located in the best point in the city for money making in this line, the city gets not $1 from it. It allows private parties to take the revenue which belongs to the city weighmaster's office and the city gets not 1 cent.

The city weighmaster simply asks the council to arrange its ordinance so that public weighing shall be done by him and his deputies, and the city to get its lawful per cent of the business. Some of the aldermen refuse to do this, the only excuse being that they do not want to interfere with anybody, and had rather let the city lose its rightful revenue than hurt anybody's feelings or get into a lawsuit. It is strange that this peculiar tenderness should be exhibited, but perhaps the prospect of near approaching elections may account in part.

With many it matters not so much as to the personal wishes of the city weigh-master, but of others directly interested. Citizens at large, having no feeling in the matter, do want to see the council so act as to secure to the city an annual revenue of $10,000. They also want to have the public given every possible protection. Those who have to depend on the certificate of some weigher when purchasing commodities, have the right to expect that the city weighmas-ter is the party to do such weighing and issue such certificate.

Some of the city council are acting very strangely about the matter of the city weighing. They do not seem disposed to make any move in the matter or pay any attention to the petitions of the city weighmaster for due protection to his office. The fact is the people elect Mr. Amy as city weighmaster for a period of two years. It matters not whether the people made a wise choice or not, or whether he is a democrat or a republican, but the city council are entitled to such an attentive hearing and a fair consideration. As long ago as last spring he called the attention of the council to the fact that while there was an ordinance regulating the weighing of goods, there was no penalty named for violation of this part of the ordinance. It was therefore of no use to try and enforce it.

A man with a load of hay had been weighed wherever he chose, and if arrested and found guilty of violating the ordinance, no punishment could be afflicted, as no punishment was named in the ordinance. The council expressed informally a desire to protect the city scales and compel persons to have their produce weighed by the city weighmaster instead of by private parties, but with an ordinance was presented to the council for enforcement of the ordinance, they killed it. The chief cause of complaint on the part of the city weighmaster is that a wealthy merchant, who has established scales at the junction of Main and Pearl streets, the scales being located on ground owned by the city, and the street being used as a market place, has refused to allow the city scales to be going into the pockets of private parties. Mr. Amy claims that if anyone is to use the city's property, and is to be allowed to use the city's property, the city weighmaster ought to be given the preference over a private person. It is also claimed with a great deal of force that the city is losing a revenue which it ought to have, and to which it is entitled.

Any one can refuse to buy unless the seller will agree to weigh on the city scales, but few want to enter into any such controversy with a single party.
The duty seems to rest with the council to regulate the question of weighing, and the aldermen ought not to shirk the responsibility. The public may be getting convinced that the city scales are a very valuable asset, and that the city ought to take steps to ensure the honesty of weights, it is natural that they should ask the council to have him protected in the exercise of his duties, and held responsible for them.

Just why the city council should year after year ignore this matter, and allow the city to be deprived of a revenue which rightfully belongs to it, is beyond explanation. The city weighmaster offers to have the scales moved to the location on Main street, now occupied by private parties, although owned by the city.
Alderman Shugart says he will consent to his doing so if he wants to, but he wants the city weighmaster to do what fighting is necessary in the courts to get the private scales moved off from city ground. It does not appear that Alderman Shugart is willing either to have any penalties affixed to the ordinance so as to have it enforced, and thus compel the public to use the official scales, or to have the scales moved to city ground. He seems to be cutting no figure. The position taken by the council is a mystery, and especially so when even the mayor, for the moment of his taking the oath of office, has kept reminding the council of its duty and urging its performance. The city attorney has also advised a like course and prepared needed ordinances resolutively, but these, too, have been ignored.
It looks as if there was more to this affair than appears on the surface, and that some secret motives must be deep down beneath.

Police Pointers.
One drunk was fined in police court yesterday. Business in that line still runs light.

Two small boys, sons of prominent citizens, were brought before Judge Aylesworth yesterday charged with shooting within the city limits. The boys had a revolver with which they had been shooting at a lamp post. The judge read the law to them, and figuring up the maximum fine, and adding the costs, made them realize that each hole in the lamp post might cost them $25. At that price a shot the sport seemed rather dear to the lads, and they were about ready to be broken hearted at the prospect of ever getting even with the world, when he soothed them by giving them a chance to go home and consult with their parents. If the parents can devise any way by which the boys will stop the practice of shooting, the case will probably end here.

Complaint is made that Arthur South-well stole four hides from George Drake's slaughter house, and sold them for his own profit.

Yesterday there were several Omaha officers scouring the city in search of two fellows wanted in Chicago. The two were found roaming about Omaha about 3 o'clock yesterday morning and arrested.
There being nothing known against them at the time they were discharged by the judge before whom they were brought, but an hour later a description of them was received, with a request to have them arrested and sent to Chicago, they being safe blowers. The men had gone, and the officers had a dreary search around this part of the country, but to no avail. An hour too late.

Placing a Crook.
About the first of the year the police arrested a young man who was trying to sell a $300 sea skin cloak for a few dollars. The fellow was taken in on suspicion, and since then the officers have been hunting for the owner of the cloak, so that he could be successfully prosecuted. No tidings of any such cloak being stolen could be learned. The fellow gave his name as Laing, and said that the cloak belonged to his mother, who was waiting at the transfer while he could raise some money on the garment, but no such woman could be found at the place named. In order to hold the fellow he was charged with vagrancy, and sent to jail for fifteen days. His time was about up when word was received from Chicago which indicated that he was wanted there. While holding him for further instructions from Chicago officers, it was learned that he was wanted at Cheyenne. Constable Edgerton, of Omaha, received information from Cheyenne, giving a description of the cloak and the owner, and the questioning were that the fellow was in a notorious house kept by May West, in that city, and during an apparent frolic, put on this cloak, saying he guessed he would not be missed. He stepped out of the house, and didn't return.
Edger-ton came over here yesterday with a description of the man and the cloak, and there being no doubt but that he was last placed here, he was given over to Constable Edgerton, whom he agreed to go with to Omaha, and there await the arrival of the officer from Cheyenne. The fellow says he will go back without any requisition.
Although he is known here as Laing, he is better known as Charles Ray. He formerly was a resident of Omaha, and used to sell papers for Harkness Bros.
He got behind with them about $50, and his brother, who was on his bond, had to pay the shortage. Since then little has been heard of him, until now when he turns up in this unpleasant situation.

Change in Crystal Ball.
George E. Harrington and Fred Carleton, under the firm name of Harrington & Carleton, have bought out Henry Wagner's Crystal Ball, No. 406 Broadway, and will in a few days fit it up in finer shape than any place of the kind in this part of the west.

George Harrington is well known popular and controls a large trade through his extensive circle of friends.
He has been in this business for years here and lately has been located at the transfer. Fred Carleton is well known Omaha, where for three years past he has been with Little & Thompson in the "Palace." The new firm will spend money in making the Crystal Ball successful, and sticking it completely, and in a few days will have the business fairly opened under the new management.

The Ice Sink.
Last evening the ice sink, corner of Seventh street and Fifth avenue, was the scene of a merry party of skaters. The ice was in fine condition, and the thermometer had raised to 15° above zero, so that it was quite pleasant for those who sat and looked on as well as the throngs of skaters. The accommodations inside the house are not up to what they might be, as when the concerts are held there is so large a crowd, but on ordinary occasions the house is sufficiently large enough. There are many ladies in the city who can be classed as fine skaters, and under the gleam of the electric light the sight will worth seeing if one cannot risk themselves on skates.

S. E. Dow, son of Judge Dow, of Dow City, was the most fortunate ticket holder out of the 32 tickets. The ticket, No.
28,731, which was awarded the suite of parlor furniture valued at $125, at the Eiseman drawing, was held by him.
Stella Long won the infant's cloak. Many of the best prizes remain yet to be called for.

The young people of the Baptist church will in the near future give a war song concert. The exact date and further details will be published later.

The crook Wilson, wanted in Omaha, was captured here last night by Officer Hendricks.

The money consideration for the transfers of real estate yesterday amounted to $24,297.

An Important Catch.
About two weeks ago the officers here were notified to be on the lookout for Thos. O'Malley, whose parents live here, but who has been night clerk in the Metropolitan hotel in Gordon City, Kan., from which place he skipped with $300 in silver belonging to the hotel. Last evening Captain O'Brien captured this man at the Rink saloon on Pearl street.
O'Malley has confessed the whole affair.

A SAD STORY.
A Women Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T. A lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this Summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter from Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.
